MR. SHAW, WE'RE LEARNING
A SMART YOUNG GIRL
MR. STEUER, GO FLYING

—By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright 1930 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW tells the world that Russia is "the ablest and most enlightened government in the world."

H. G. Wells, who knows more about the real world than Shaw has even known, even when he was young and doubted his infallibility, says Russia may not get on her feet "because she has produced no body of managers, no body of educated men, free, able and willing to work together."

Russia imports her managers from America and Germany, but that does not mean she never will produce her own. Shaw says an American gangster in Russia "would have as much chance of survival as a rat in a yard full of terriers." Mr.
Shaw does not know the American gangster.

Mr. Shaw observes that America kills you for committing murder,
and prides you for making money;
that in Russia they kill you for making money, and put you in jail for four or five years for committing murder. If that's so, the Russians would kill Shaw. He makes lots of money.

Shaw says Americans should face
"the stupendous possibility that the United States may have some edifying things to learn from Russia."

Possibly America could learn something from Timbuctoo, as the hare learned something about racing from the tortoise.

At present the whole world is busy learning. Russia is learning from Americans how to organize industry, and American industry and finance are learning from their mistakes how to avoid similar mistakes in the future.

When Russia has a group of hundred-thousand millionaires and an occasional billionaire, like ours, money will go to their heads as it went recently to the heads of our big men and small stock gamblers.

"That 'money' which is destroyed by 'tax' and 'republishes by wealth'
is as true now as when Prudhomme said it."

Shaw remarks that he has "cited enough to make even the most absurd American (and Americans are the most absurd people at present on earth) remember that those who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

Shaw has not said enough to convince anybody that human nature and the history of mankind can be changed abruptly by any mixture of German communism and Muscovite communism.

DRINK A TOAST. It only in soda
pop, to Miss Charlotte Hodgkinson, 19 years old, who took flying lessons for 76 minutes, then flew by herself, and did it well.

It would almost hurt your "depression blues" to see that young American girl waving her arms
from the cockpit.

Even birds do not learn to fly as quickly at that, although they begin much younger.

FLYING PROGRESSES steadily.
Hourly flights from New York to the Newark, (N. J.) field and on to points west and south have been inaugurated. The young lady men-

FLIERS OBSERVE ARMY DAY; PLAN SPECIAL EVENT

Fifty Planes Participate In "War", Feature of Air Race Program

WOMAN PILOT WINS GREATEST HONORS

Mrs. Phoebe Omlie Leads Contestants; California
Aviator Second

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—Fifty thundering fighters staged a war dance through the skies today in observance of army day at the National air races.

The 50, flying military formations, stormed out of the northwest and low over the field with their engines roaring an ear-splitting din to circle, roll, loop, and turn in every formation in the military catalog.

The fighters were from the first army pursuit group at Selfridge Field, Mich., under command of Major Gerald Bremer. Thirty-seven of them had arrived Saturday and the remainder today, the first contingent having left the field early to meet the newcomers.

Speed Features Program

Speed also shared the program with the spectacular, for some of the fastest planes in the air races were sent through tryouts for the Thompson trophy race, which will be run next Monday. Thompson trophy entrants are determined they will break the world speed record for land planes, which was set away back in 1924 in France at 278.8 miles an hour.

So far at the races a woman has gained the largest share of the honors. She is Mrs. Phoebe Omlie of Memphis, Tenn., who flies a monocoupe, with this ship she won the handicap derby from Santa Monica, to Cleveland, and two 30-mile closed course races for women.

Leads Men, Women

In the handicap she led a field of 51 men and women aviators, winning the grand prize as well as the prize for women. She scored 109.19 points, while D. C. Warren of Alameda, Calif., who won the men's division of the race, was given 103.5 points.

Points were scored on the basis

Winner of the women's derby from Santa Monica, Calif., to Cleveland, Mrs. Phoebe Omlie is shown at the Ohio city, bedecked in the victor's garlands.

CITIZENS BANK TO PAY $140,000 TO DEPOSITORS

First Payment of 25 Per Cent Will Be Made
About Sept. 15

Payments totalling $140,000 will be made to depositors and stockholders of the Citizens Savings bank, on or before Tuesday, September 15, A. E. Beardmore, treasurer, announced today.

The payments to be made this month represent a 25 per cent dividend on deposits in the bank at the time the institution was closed by the state banking department, Beardmore said. Additional payments will be made regularly.

The bank had hoped to be able to issue the initial quarter dividend not later than Sept. 1, Beardmore asserted, but checks for the payments were received Monday and must be returned to the state department at Columbus for proper signatures and authorization from Ohio bank officials.

They will be distributed to de-positors upon return from Columbus, the cashier said.

Beardmore predicted that de-positors will receive regular payments for money held at the bank at its closing. Another dividend of 25 per cent will be declared as soon as sufficient funds for the purpose are obtained.

He said that it is highly probable that depositors will receive all money deposited in the institution.

CHURCH BOMBED IN MEXICO CITY

Second Largest Religious Edifice
In Mexican Capital Damaged;
No Injuries Result

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1.—The bombing of La Profesa church, second largest in the capital, resulting in considerable damage to the main altar but no injuries, was investigated by Mexico City police today.

A woman worshipper said that a young man of good appearance warned her to leave the building.
As she was passing out of the doors she heard an explosion and saw the man dash into the street and lose himself among the pedestrians.

There were about six other people in the church at the time, including a woman who had been kneeling with a baby in her arms at the altar just before the explosion occurred. No one was injured but in addition to the damaged altar a pulpit and several confession booths were demolished.

Labor day.

Meet In Lisbon

Plans for the affair were formulated at a meeting of the fish and game unit in Lisbon Monday night.
The event will replace the field day planned several months ago and which was postponed because of inclement weather.

Inspection of the lake, dam and other features of the park will be held Monday, D. J. Burcaw of Salem, announced today. A trapshoot, coon chase, pistol shot contest,

DAMAGE ACTIONS FILED IN COURT

Airplane Accident Brings Suit for $50,000 By County Resident

LISBON, Sept. 1.—Two damage suits totalling $60,000 have been filed in common pleas court here, one for $50,000 damages as the outcome of the first injury caused by a flying ship.

Glenn B. Roberts, through his counsel Samuel W. Crawford and Charles Boys filed the $50,000 damage action against Donald McIntyre, residing at Glasgow on the West Point-Wellsville road and Earl Lawrence of 1450 Pennsylvania avenue, East Liverpool.

The petition relates that Roberts was permanently injured when visiting the Rinehart airport in St.
Clair township Aug. 10, 1930, when a flying ship operated by the two defendants when making a landing lost control of machine and crashed into Roberts.

The City of East Liverpool is defendant in a $10,000 damage action by Attorney Boyd, claims that she fell while descending a public stairway from St. Clair avenue to Daisy

Enemies In World War, Noted Fliers Friends In Cleveland

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—Two fighting men, enemies in France 13 years ago, had met and made it up today.

Meet As Friends

Yesterday, for the first time since their combat days in the World war, Colonel Eddie Rickenbacker and Major Ernest Udet greeted each other as friends.

It wasn't much of a meeting, probably to those who like their meetings well spiced. But the effulgent were suddenly silent as the two aces gripped hands and looked into each other's eyes.

They made a striking pair.
Rickenbacker, tall, dark and tacturn; Udet, short and almost pudgy, like a jovial Santa Claus without whiskers, whose daring has made him a favorite with the crowds at the national air races.

At Chateau Thierry, Soissons
and St. Mihiel they opposed

Aug. 15 Crash Results
In Court Charge

Maurice Rakestraw of Berlin Center, driver of the car which struck and killed Roland H.
Phelps, 64, of Mogadore, as he was walking on the road near Boyd's

Woodrow Harmon and Charles Hilles, also of Berlin Center and

The boys were arrested by Deputy

CIGARET COSTS UP; NEW 2-CENT TAX IN EFFECT

State Expects to Realize $7,000,000 Annually To Aid School Funds

Coppers tinkled into Salem tobacco shop today. It was the first day of the new Ohio two-cent cigarette tax.

The two-cent tax on each package of twenty cigarettes is expected to bring $7,000,000 a year to the state treasury for use in bolstering state funds and supplying financial aid to impoverished school districts.
When the tax went into effect at midnight last night, tax stamp sales were estimated by treasury officials at $1,000,000.

New license fees for wholesalers and retailers of $25 and $50 respectively, also went into effect, representing a cut of 50 per cent
from former fees.

Salem dealers, listing sales of cigarets at various prices, from 16 cents up to 20, reported the new tax will effect a decrease in consumption of the ready-made "fags" and a heavy increase in the "rollyour-own" smokes.

Opponents to use of tobaccos are lauding the tax as an obstacle to habitual use of cigarettes among many Ohioans.

Who Cares?

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept.
1.—Not much news over the week-end as we look at news
nowadays. Flood in China
drowned a million. We take that with as little concern as a New York gang killing or the 50 people killed in autos over the week-end.

Mr. Mellon is today's headliner, borrowing one billion one hundred million at 3 per cent.
Could have got it at about one
and a half, but wanted to give the boys a break. This means they are going to finance by borrowing instead of increased taxes on those able to pay. It's too close to election to antagon-
ize the big boys.

Who Cares?

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept.
1.—Not much news over the week-end as we look at news
nowadays. Flood in China
drowned a million. We take
that with as little concern as a
New York gang killing or the 50 people killed in autos over
the week-end.

Mr. Mellon is today's head-
liner, borrowing one billion one
hundred million at 3 per cent.
Could have got it at about one
and a half, but wanted to give
the boys a break. This means
they are going to finance by
borrowing instead of increased
taxes on those able to pay. It's too close to election to antagon-
ize the big boys.

LEADER MUST HAVE FOLLOWERS

The fitting together of governmental puzzles is a cruel business that frequently gets out of control of the individuals in nominal management, as Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's sagacious prime minister, knows only too well.

He, assistant creator and developer of the rising labor party, has just been repudiated in the constituency which elected him to the house of commons. In addition to the demand for his resignation by his own constituents, he has been attacked by the local labor organization in the London suburb of Hampstead, where he maintains a home. All because he placed nation higher than party in forming a new coalition cabinet when his party was defeated.

Automatically, he became a leader separated from his followers. The harsh fact is that the lower middle class people who constitute the backbone of the labor party suspect that their leader's principles have been subtly undermined by conservative influences. They would prefer to follow him, but they, too, heed a higher call—party. The old chieftain has lost it following.

The United States, which frankly admires Mr. MacDonald, will be like to scout reports of the gravity of his position, preferring to believe that his undoubted sincerity and integrity will prevail over the exigencies of a political situation. Americans remember that Mr. MacDonald's independent thinking and action have lost him followers before, and that they later came back. He opposed Great Britain's entrance into the World war, was denounced bitterly, and punished by defeat. His moral ascendancy was a social juggernaut, however, and when the passions of war had subsided he was elected again. He was called a "traitor" in 1914, yet he has been prime minister twice since then.

Economy is the governmental fetish to which Mr. MacDonald has dedicated himself. His program includes retrenchments in all functions of government. Dole beneficiaries, among others, will feel the pinch. Many of them are members of the labor party. It is not hard to understand why there will be defections from the ranks of MacDonald followers. The United States understands the coercion of minorities sufficiently well to realize what is happening.

Ramsay MacDonald's proportions of manhood will not be diminished by anything that may happen before his brilliant career is concluded. What may happen to his standing as a political leader, however, is problematical. Without followers a leader is no more than a theorist. Ideas start movement, but it is social consent that carries them to completion.

AUGUST INTENTIONS

The department of agriculture each year assembles August estimates of wheat planting, gathered from farmers in the various states. This service is valuable to both farmers and speculators enabling them to guess with reasonable accuracy the future trend of the wheat market.

This fall, according to the estimates, there will be a 12 per cent reduction in the nation's wheat acreage, the fourth consecutive reduction, incidentally. This is something like 38 per cent too little to balance supply demand, however; the vast surplus that hangs over the wheat farmer's bowed neck like a guillotine on a hair release will still teeter ominously. The department of agriculture estimates the supply of wheat in the United States this season at approximately 1,213,000,000 bushels, or enough for a two full years' supply to meet

domestic consumption

This total is made up of 320,000 bushels carryover from last year, and a predicted crop of 893,000,000 bushels this year. If domestic consumption amount to 650,000,000 bushels and exports reach 113,000,000 bushels, the same as last year, there will be a carryover next summer of something like 450,000,000 bushels to plague the farmer.

There was once an idea that the way to get ahead on a farm was to make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before. For years the federal government, through the department of agriculture, taught farmers how to turn the trick—how to increase production, for their own good. The farmers caught on rapidly, too rapidly as it seems now. They raised more and better wheat, corn, and everything else. Now, when they should be sitting on top of the world according to the old fashioned idea, they are told that they are raising too much. A 12 per cent reduction in wheat acreage is only a fourth enough.

It will take a good deal of time around the kitchen stove to figure this out, particularly when the mail comes and the farm folks read in the paper that people are hungry and unclothed, and that there is a proposal to cease planting cotton altogether. It won't be any wonder if farmers get a little restless and curious concerning whys and wherefores of matters they thought had been figured out satisfactorily years ago and inscribed in school copy books for all to read and understand.

What Others Say

THE DOLE CONDEMNED

Returning from a two months' visit in England, Dr. Walter Scott Altheim, new president of Butler university, Indianapolis, gives his impressions of the "dole system" in operation in that country and its effects upon those who receive a dole from the public treasury.

It is Dr. Altheim's opinion that it is the dole, perhaps more than anything else, that is impoverishing England and tearing it down, and he warns congress against adopting anything suggestive of it.

"The people of England," he says, "are being made dependents rather than independent. Rather than doing something for the government, too many people are doing things to the government. Why should we work, anyhow, when we can work the government for something, appears to be the attitude of many. I am glad that organized labor of America has taken a stand against the dole. It is unfair to the workman of thrift, initiative and industry."

Dr. Altheim states that the dole in England is very unpopular. He says the fellow who is getting a dole out of the government complains because he thinks he is not getting enough. A man of industry has no cause for remaining industrious. If others work the government for a dole why shouldn't he? A dole is a curse on the people of the country.

"But the dole," he says, "now that it is fastened upon the country, is looked upon as a necessary evil. Those who are working the government for a dole would rebel against its discontinuance. No one knows how to change it or get rid of it without the risk of plunging the nation into a neconomic revolution that would give Russian sovietism or German Hitlerism a chance to sow its seeds of discontent and promote its radicalism."

"American citizens, the working man as well as the business man, should be sure to defeat any candidate for congress who tries to make political capital of economic unrest and promises to vote for anything smacking of the dole system in any form. Our people must retain their initiative. We must not kill thrift with a dole. We must work for our government rather than work our government. Surely we should profit by Great Britain's distressing mistake." — Danville Commercial News.

The Stars Say —

For Wednesday, September 2

The stellar operations for this day are found to rule with benign force, consequently affairs will move with much celerity toward progressive and prosperous denouements. It is a time for forging toward cherished goals, seeking promotion or preferment in employment, renewal of contracts or agreements, for pushing negotiations with large concerns or secret organizations. But beware of extravagances and imprudent use of funds. Personal activities also flourish.

Those whose birthday it is are under a sign of much progress and prosperity for the year, with all affairs, personal and business, developing on lines of pleasure, profit, preferment and advancement. It may be advisable for these to push but to be prudent with finances and temperate in personal indulgences.

A child born on this day may be brilliant, adaptable, ambitious and reach a high status of popularity, prestige and prosperity in almost any channel of initiative.

Notable Nativity: Hiram Johnson, Senator.

BOSTON—As a distributing center for the nation's merchandise, Boston is exceeded in importance only by New York and Chicago. This was revealed by a recent Chamber of Commerce survey which listed the 1930 volume of wholesale trade in Boston as $2,470,213,087, compared with $2,155,363,623 for Philadelphia and smaller amounts for several other cities that outrank Boston in population.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Many believe the Palace, only all vaudeville theater in town and one of three in the entire nation, is blazing the trail for a vaudeville revival. The Sunday "celebrity nights" at the Palace bring the biggest and perhaps the most representative audience on the Rialto.

The Palace has been the class variety house—the hope of every playfellow—for 18 years. That vaudeville is not entirely dead is proved there. When it presents high class bills it is invariably packed. The drawback is that due to the scarcity of good acts bills are repetitions.

The Palace has been the proving ground of talent and also the graduating field for many artists to legitimate and motion picture triumphs. The tentacles of vaudeville have reached out to almost every high class theatrical endeavor.

It has spawned so many stars in other branches that it has become a shell with scarcely a handful of strictly vaudeville headliners. Vaudeville did not fight and permitted its ranks to be looted. It now pays the penalty in almost total extinction.

In the past few years it has secured headliners by bridging gaps between productions for favored stars, Bernhardt and Ethel Barrymore have appeared at the Palace along with hundreds of others. The only notable exception is Al Jolson, who has been offered as high as $10,000 a week.

The Palace never deviated from eight acts twice a day, save lately it gives three performances on Sunday. On the opening bill there appeared among others Ed Wynn, Taylor Holmes and Ota Gygi. Perhaps the three most popular Palace performers today are Phil Baker, Lou Holz and Frank Fay.

Ten years ago there were nine high class all-vaudeville playhouses in the greater city. Most went motion picture. Others were experimental grounds for everything from Shakespeare to marionette shows. A vaudeville comeback necessitates a new chain of theaters. And I hear a syndicate is forming.

A public librarian tells me the younger generation shows little interest in O. Henry. Characters he wrote about have vanished—the professional Southerner, garrulous boarding house keeper, sweat shop owner, fighting Irishman, pretty and unsophisticated waitress, clothing store pullers-in, horse cars and boarding house front porches.

About the only district left with boarding houses is Brooklyn. They are mostly old time brick mansions of another day with wide porches and comfortable lawns—pensive citadels that bespeak prunes for breakfast and rice pudding for dinner.

When I came to New York the boarding house area spread on West 57th street, solidly lined with brown stones from 8th avenue to the Hudson. My quarters was a top hall room in an establishment called "The Aldine" and after dinner we luxuriated in the splendor of one of those early American parlors which displayed decorative horrors including fireside conch shells and a red carpeted brick door stop. All of us were inwardly expressing a bourgeois defensive complex that This Was Life.

I remember a down the hall neighbor about whom was whispered: "He is writing a play." Through a slit in the door I saw him at all hours, his hair tousled and hands and bare arms spotted with the scurf of dried ink. His pen seemed always scratching on long sheets of ruled fool's cap. And then one day he vanished. Dramatic collapse. I announced he sold a play. I sat in the balcony at the opening and thought it a masterpiece. But it ran only a week. The last time I saw him he was, ironically enough, selling tickets in a Pelham movie.

Incidentally, this was my first "opening night" on Broadway. The theater was the old Harold Square. Among critics were "Stuffy" Davis in a blue sweater, Lawrence Reamer, Renold Wolf and Alan Dale. The only other critic of the present crop I recall seeing was Kelsey Allen. I also got my first peek at Diamond Jim Brady.

From "A New Yorker": "Judging from your secrets everyone who comes to Manhattan from the tall grass is corn fed. Is that their sole asset?"

Many of us are hand-spanked.

WORRYING BANKERS

Editor, The News: At a meeting in Switzerland, a committee of bankers, representing the ten leading banking nations of the world, recommended that the "entire structure of inter-governmental war debts and German reparations be revised."

Their report assailed Germany's reparation payments as an obstacle to the peaceful, economic progress of the world; and the great powers were advised to "lose no time" in revising the schedule of international payments.

The deep concern manifested by these bankers towards Germany's economic welfare, is due to that nation's change of attitude towards Moscow. The European director of International News Service tells us that "broad streams of red ideology, pouring through huge gaps and winding through the manifold phases of German life, are beginning to lap the shores of England." He also informs us that Asia and Australia are becoming more reconciled to the principles of Bolshevism and that Germany is likely to be the first European nation to adopt the regime.

In Germany, banking has already become a state monopoly the same as in Soviet Russia while a report from a British bank and its clients says in part: "Recent developments in Germany must afford concern to capitalist system. It is but little realized yet to what extent Germany has adopted the principles of Soviet Russia."

The bankers of Europe, however, have a greater reason to fear the spread of Bolshevism than those of America; for if that regime is destined to supercede capitalism, its spread will be westward, over the Pacific, away from America.

The star of empire is still shining upon America and if, in its westward course, it ever sinks below our horizon, it must first travel around the globe before it comes back to us. That is to say that the bankers of America may rest assured that the present banking system of their nation will be the last to be condemned and supplanted by another.

D. H. RUMMEL.

Editor Salem News: Sunday morning I returned from a trip to Rogers, Ark., 1400 miles from Salem. I was a delegate to a mass national convention. We organized a new political party, nominated a candidate for president and for vice president; adopted a platform which, in my candid judgment, taken in relation to the troublesome times in which we are now struggling, is the grandest declaration of economic and constructive principles ever put forth in the United States.

We named it "The Liberty party of America." In a few days I shall have a lot of printed copies of the platform and hand one to you for publication, if you will. I will then give a more lengthy report of my extraordinary trip; not the least interesting of which was a visit to the old battle ground of Prairie Grove, 36 miles from Rogers, on the Ozark mountains, Dec. 7, 1863, my regiment, the 10th Kansas, was in the thickest of the battle. A number of the old Confederate veterans with their children and grandchildren, were holding a reunion, and I mingled with them, shook hands in the name of peace, fraternity and comradeship, standing on the very soil where, 68 years ago, we were trying to kill each other. They greeted me heartily and gave me the choicest eats in camp.

You can imagine that this most remarkable experience of my trip, seemed like a fanciful dream.

High Blood Pressure

A newspaper columnist told us about two doctors. The first physician found his blood pressure to be 160 and told him it was too low. Immediately he went to another, who found the pressure to be 145 and said it was too high.

Such experiences might greatly lessen your faith in doctors. But they shouldn't.

The blood pressure is a variable affair and easily influenced by external factors. A patient visiting the doctor may be excited and fearful of what may be wrong. As a result the blood pressure may be raised as much as forty points.

Perhaps what the first doctor told the newspaper man was disturbing. It may well be that his fear and haste in reaching the second physician raised his pressure.

Many physicians insist upon taking the blood pressure several times before determining its significance. You can see why.

High blood pressure is not a disease. It is hardly more than one symptom or sign of a disturbance somewhere in the mechanism of the body. Unfortunately, many individuals consider it as a disease and seek relief for it as such.

Some cases of high blood pressure may be due to changes in the heart, the thyroid gland, or in the kidney. Others are caused by hardening of the arteries. Constant headache and disturbances in the vision are likely to accompany the latter.

One of the most common forms of high blood pressure is called by the doctors "essential hypertension." This type is rarely associated with any definite changes in the body. There is no damage to the heart or kidney. As a rule the blood vessels are soft, with no signs of hardening. The eyes are normal and physical examination reveals nothing of importance.

It is of this type of high blood pressure I wish to speak today. In spite of the popular fear of high pressure, there is no reason for alarm. There is no occasion to associate all sorts of accidents and tragedies with a really meaningless symptom.

This type of high blood pressure is usually discovered accidentally, often during a life insurance examination. Except for the accident of discovery, the normal span of life would have passed with no suggestion of anything unusual.

One of the most common causes of high blood pressure is our manner of living. Americans differ from Europeans in that they do not relax. We are too strenuous.

If the pressure is too high, it is well to learn to rest. Leisurely living will prolong life.

Flower of Thorns

By Marie Conway Oemler

FLOWER OF THORNS SYNOPSIS

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. She opens a hot dog stand on the Dixie highway. The estate of the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, adjoins Oakleigh. Harry Winstead holds the Oakleigh mortgage. His only son, Sam, is a great help to Sally, although she doesn't know his real identity until the stand is successfully started. Sally falls in love with Lowndes Jennings. Sam forces Lowndes to admit in front of Sally that he is engaged to the wealthy Gertrude Reinert. Sam asks Sally to marry him, although he knows she doesn't love him. Sally becomes Sam's wife in name only. Sam gives Oakleigh back to Sally as a wedding present. The night of the wedding Sally's grandmother dies. Sally collapses and is brought to Winstead's while she is still unconscious.

INSTALLMENT 25 "YOU CAN GO FREE."

"The nurse has just told me that I have been here two weeks," said Sally. "It seems unbelievable."

"I didn't wish you to wake up at Oakleigh," the bridegroom told her. "I thought you'd better wake up here . . . the strange room would arouse your interest, I imagined."

"It did. I didn't know where I was at first. It is a very beautiful room."

"Hurry up and get well in it," said he kindly.

"Please . . . is grandmamma . . . put with . . . grandpapa?"

"Of course. She would wish that, dear old lady!"

"I think they're together," said she wistfully. "I couldn't bear to think that they're not together again. They loved each other so much!"

"For love is strong as death," he quoted again.

"You believe that?"

"Yes, Sally. I believe that. I am sure of that."

"I hope he came for her. I think he came, and she saw him—and went away with him."

"I hope so with all my heart," said he gently. Katie's son found no difficulty in knowing that love

"—but I thought we were to stay at Oakleigh."

is strong as death. "Let us think, so, and be glad for them both."

She lay with closed eyes, but the tears she could not control crept under her lids and trickled down her cheeks. His eyes grew compassionate. Poor little girl, she had stood so much! He had brought some late May roses from the garden, and now he called her attention to them—see how exquisite the color, how perfect the form, how wonderful the fragrance! Her tears ceased, she held out her hand for the flowers.

"When you are better you must see the Winstead gardens. We pride ourselves on our roses—that is, I do, and dad smiles benignly. Rose growing is a favorite occupation of mine," he smiled.

She looked at him curiously, with something of resentment.

"How many favorite occupations have you got?" she asked. "Running a successful dairy, raising prize chickens, knowing everything about antiques, growing roses—I suppose you grow particularly wonderful roses, too?"

"Fairly."

"You surprise me more and more. I am terrified to discover how many, many things you can do!" she managed to make answer.

"You'll be terrified if ever you are called upon to be my partner at bridge," he told her, laughing. "I somehow manage to acquire the rottenest hands ever dealt to anybody this side of Hades."

"You don't play a good game, really?"

"Really I don't."

"I am glad to know that," she said deliberately. "I do. It gives me real pleasure to know that there really is something in the world I can do better than you can."

He laughed. "Now I know you're better! You're—Flower . . . of . . . Thorns herself again."

"I heard . . . the milkman . . . singing that. A long time ago. When

But Sam Winstead's head drooped. He watched the girl who didn't love him, who was married to him—and who was married to him. A rueful smile twisted his lips. He could give her everything. Could he give her happiness? And he wished her to be happy.

Mrs. Rutherford's sudden death and Sally's collapse had shocked him profoundly, had forced upon him a question which peremptorily demanded an answer. What was to be the effect of her grandmother's death upon Sally's reaction to her marriage with him? He had seen the look Sally had cast upon his father when Henry Winstead attempted to approach his son's bride and it had angered him, had given him pause to think anxiously. Sally had married him because of her grandmother—and the old lady's death had immediately followed. He had counted on Mrs. Rutherford remaining alive for some years; he had hoped that, after she had married him, and with her mind relieved of fear, Sally would naturally learn to care for him—how could she remain adamant against the constant thoughtfulness of a devoted love?

But with Mrs. Rutherford his strongest prop was removed. Sally was here, in his house, ministered to by his affection, his by every law—except the one great law. She didn't love him. Now that her grandmother had gone perhaps she would never learn to love him. He could give her everything—except happiness. Had he, indeed, done well to marry Sally?

Well, he had followed his inclination, done what he wished to do. He had honestly meant it for her happiness as well as his own, knowing what he had to give her. And now perhaps she would never understand, she would never want what he had to offer.

A hazy plan, a nebulous ghost of an idea, began to form in his mind. He rose and stood for a space by the bedside looking down at the sleeping girl, and his eyes were the eyes of one tormented. This was the one woman. He leaned over her whom he loved and who didn't love him, didn't begin to know him, was afraid of him.

He must think this thing out rationally. Her happiness must be safeguarded. If he couldn't have her—and have her against her will he would not—nevertheless he had his own work, a man's work in the world of men. Thank heaven for that—a man's work, his own particular work, chosen by himself. But as he walked out of the house he did not hum to himself nor whistle as was his wont. Flor de Espina he had called her . . . Flower of Thorns. But there were no buds of blossoms now. Only thorns.

Because Sally was young and healthy her body was more resilient than her spirit. Color came back to her lips, sparkle to her eyes. She had left her room and was growing stronger with every passing hour. Then the nurse departed—Mrs. Sam Winstead was quite well again and had no further need of her. Sally was out of the house, in the garden; it was early June, a sweet, cool June, and the garden was as beautiful as only a Carolina garden can be.

"This is a lovely place, but I thought we were to stay at Oakleigh," she ventured one morning. There was a little seat under the great live oak outside her window, and this was her favorite haunt. She felt safe here as if the strong arms of the live oak upheld and protected her, shut her in safe from all intrusion. Her privacy was seldom intruded upon. Henry Winstead spent most of his time in the city, coming late at night and leaving early in the morning before she was out of bed, and her breakfast was always served in her own room. Sam seldom disturbed her. But this morning he sat with her. He had decided to speak if she gave him the right opportunity to do so.

"I thought you had better stay here for a while—at least while you weren't quite well. But if you prefer to go back to Oakleigh now," he paused.

"I'd like to—it's home. But, of course, if you'd rather stay here," she looked at him inquiringly.

"My dear girl, you must consider your own wishes. I—ah—have been waiting to say something to you, Sally. I think you're quite well enough now to listen to what I have to say."

"I am quite well enough to listen to whatever you have to say, please."

He found himself at a difficulty in saying what he had to say. "I—wanted to say this, that perhaps—since your grandmother's death—there is really no reason why you should have to be married to me."

She turned a startled face to him.

"What do you mean?" she breathed. "What on earth do you mean?"

"I mean that you can go free, Sally," said Sam Winstead.

P.A. rolls easy and stays put!

AM I sold on Prince Albert for home-rolled cigarettes? Ask me another! I like P.A.'s fragrance. And I like the way P.A. rolls, it rolls easy and stays put. But the big point in P.A.'s favor is its marvelous taste. Cool as a summons to serve on the jury. Sweet as the news that you have been excused. Mild and mellow beyond description, but with that full, rich tobacco-body that satisfies your smoke-hunger to the absolute limit. Try rolling 'em with P.A. Try this tobacco in your pipe, also.

Learning Again

Step by step, like a baby learning to walk, Evelyn Knapp, screen actress, is slowly recovering the use of her legs in Los Angeles after being confined to bed for two months. The beautiful film star was seriously injured when she fell down a cliff while hiking in the mountains near Hollywood.

RACING PILOTS BATTLE IN AIR

of comparative powers of the motor and speed of the plane. Calculation of the points, which entailed considerable figuring, created resentment among many of the derby pilots.

Forecasts of favorable weather in the midwest prevented air race spectators today from witnessing the eight trans-continental flyers dash across the finish line from Los Angeles, Calif. The derby which had been set to start this morning, was postponed for better weather until tomorrow.

Imported Talent

Lil Dagover, noted German stage and screen star, and reputed to have the most beautiful back in the world, is shown as she arrived in New York for appearances in American films. She left for Hollywood immediately to begin work on a motion picture.

Girl Caddy for "Bach" Prince

While the Prince of Wales is probably the most famous bachelor in the world, he evidently doesn't object to having girls follow him about on the golf links. This picture, one of the most informal snaps ever made of the heir to the British throne, shows him enjoying a round of golf on the course at Chilterna, near Biarritz, France. The young party totting the royal clubs is Mlle. Yvonne Robin.

TODAY

tioned proves how easy it is to learn to fly if you have a well-balanced brain. And busy men actually use airplanes.

On Sunday, for instance, in a single-motor plane, such as Lindbergh uses, Walter Blumenthal of Hailgarten & Co. flew down from the Adirondacks to Curtiss field in New York, with an interesting load, flying over New York at night doing 270 miles in two hours.

Walter Blumenthal, who piloted the ship, is a banker. One of his passengers was Bernard F. Gimbel, department store owner, the other passenger was Max D. Steuer, who proved recently that you can convict a banker in New York. And most interesting to the student of eugenics, is the fact that the professional pilot, a young man of 20, who took his turn at the controls, was Russell Thaw, son of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and Harry Thaw, both well-known to reporters.

"TO HIM THAT HATH shall be given."

The late generous Payne Whitney, now in heaven, where the Bible was written, can tell them that his case proves the truth of that text.

Mr. Whitney left a large estate, which paid inheritance taxes of more than $17,000,000, leaving more than $200,000,000 for distribution.

Since that time, the value of his estate has increased by more than $52,000,000, and on that increase the estate pays no taxes since taxes are based on values at the time of death.

Mr. Whitney left his wife more than $67,000,000, the largest of his bequests. For that he deserves credit.

To the New York hospital society he gave more than $21,000,000; to the New York public library more than $7,000,000, more than $9,000,000 to Yale and Cornell.

The Payne Whitney estate is said to be the biggest ever appraised in New York. There have been bigger American fortunes, however, but in some cases much of the fortune has been given away before the death of the owner.

John D. Rockefeller, for instance, has given away more than $500,000,000 to public philanthropies. If he had kept all the money he ever had he would, to the comparison of the late J. Ogden Armour, make Mr. Whitney "look like a gypsy."

THE NATIONAL state, city, county and township governments look around and find new things to tax. They should, if the taxation is just, for they need money.

Chicago finds 46 corporations operating privately-owned cars worth more than $84,000,000. Tax on these cars will help pay school teachers.

President Hoover, to avoid extra taxation that would be doubly discouraging in this depression, will have the government borrow about 1,000 million dollars. That is a small part of our national expenses, but it will help. Not so long ago this country was horrified to learn that the government expected to spend one billion dollars in two years.

Mr. Mellon will be able to borrow the billion needed on bonds running over a period of 20 years at 3 per cent.

When Europe and especially the British hear that they will say: "Alas and alack!" there was a time when British "consols" sold on a base of 2 per cent and less.

MARKETS

STOCKS RALLY; TRADING DULL

Issues Recover In Spurt But Increases Mean Little On Mart

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—After drifting slightly lower in the early trading today the stock market hardened slowly, cancelling the losses and sending representative leaders fractionally above the previous close. The dullness of the trading, however, made fluctuations virtually meaningless.

American Telephone, Eastman, Westinghouse and Atchison recovered declines of a point. Stocks like U. S. Steel, General Motors, General Electric, Radio and American Can were extremely quiet. Loew's and Purit Bakeries rallied more than a point. Beechnut Packing lost 3.

Call money renewed at 1 1/2 per cent.

HOGS, 1,400; holdovers none; steady to 25 lower; decline centering on lighter weights 160-250 lbs. sorts 6.65; top 6.70; sparingly; 260-300 lbs. 6.25 down; pigs dull, offered around 6.00.

CATTLE—150; little change; common holdover steers 5.25@6.00; odd head 1300 lbs. bullocks 6.75; bulls relatively scarce; low culler to medium cows 1.50@4.00; bulk 2.00 upward; good cows upward to 4.50 and above.

Good Grape Crop

GENEVA, O., Sept. 1.—Good news for grape consumers is seen in statements of growers in this district that a bumper crop is in prospect and that grapes are maturing earlier than usual.

PITTSBURGH—Evidence that some prisoner, searched hurriedly, deceived police more than a quarter of a century ago came to light with razing of the old cell block in No. 7 police station. Beneath a crack in the wall were found 60 counterfeit dollars made of babbit metal, which police believe were discarded to avoid detection. The coins were dated 1899, 1900 and 1902.

Went to Death Together

This is probably the last picture made of Mrs. Asta Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, and her three children, Harry 12, Annabel 9, and Greta 14. All were slain near Clarksburg, W. Va., by Harry F. Powers, modern Bluebeard, who lured Mrs. Eicher there on promise of marriage. Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, of Worcester, Mass., is the fifth known victim of the "mail order killer."

all phases of unemployment relief are already active in many states. He urged that such committees be appointed in all the states that face an unemployment problem this winter.

Divide Relief Work

Activities of the unemployment relief organization have been divided into three divisions, Gifford announced as follows:

1. The activities, public and private, to provide relief funds.
2. The administration of relief funds.
3. Activities looking toward distributing and increasing employment.

The committee appointed today will handle the first of these three activities and Gifford said committees to handle the others would be announced later.

Meanwhile the relief organization announced reports from 35 cities and towns had indicated some signs of improved conditions in 14 of them. The others reported no signs of an advance.

The cities in which some signs of improvement were noted included Philadelphia; Albany, Georgia; Mobile, Alabama; Chattanooga; Knoxville, Johnson City, Tennessee; Memphis, Chicago, New York; St. Louis; Dallas; Salt Lake City; San Francisco; and Los Angeles.

Another Victim

The fifth body to be recovered on the "murder farm" of Harry F. Powers, near Clarksburg, W. Va., was that of Mrs. Dora Pressler Lemke (above), of Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Lemke, like Mrs. Asta Eicher, was lured to her death through promises of marriage.

SAVE THAT STATE TAX!

Roll your own, MEN! You don't pay state tax on TARGET cigarettes!

WHAT'S the use of paying BIG money for cigarettes when now it's such a cinch to roll your own with Target? No state tax on Target—that's a big break! And one thin dime buys 30 to 40 cigarettes! And what cigarettes! Real honest-to-gosh tobacco—Virginia, Burley and Turkish, put through exactly the same process as the tobacco in ready-mades, and kept fresh and fragrant with moisture-proof Cellophane. Two neat packs of gummed-edge cigarette papers come with every package of Target, too. Try rolling a Target at your dealer's with the new inexpensive Target Roller; you get a perfect, round cigarette that looks like a ready-made, tastes like it, and you save at least half a buck a week. If that isn't a break, what is?

AND GET THIS!

The U. S. Government Tax on 20 cigarettes amounts to 6c. On 20 cigarettes you roll from Target tobacco the tax is just about 1c. No wonder you get such value for a dime!

ROLL 'EM BETTER THE GOOD OLD WAY!

Your dealer will demonstrate this Target Roller. It is the most practical device for rolling perfect cigarettes. It is guaranteed by the makers to work to your satisfaction.

Shake a little Target tobacco on a Target cigarette paper. Target's long cut. It rolls even the full length of the cigarette. Tuck in the paper and roll with both thumbs toward the gummed edge.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 1.—The nation was scoured today for victims of the slayer of Harry F. Powers, who was killed by Mrs. D. P. Lempeke of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Eicher's three children.

Officers checked and re-checked papers found in the possession of the pudgy, 42-year-old student of "scientific crime," in Detroit headquarters of a correspondence agency Powers used, records of the agency were sought for further clues.

Meanwhile, digging progressed about the Powers death garage near here for trace of any further victims there might be; court officials discussed the possibility of a special term of court to try Powers for the five killings he has admitted; and interest heightened in the suggestion that Powers might have been responsible for the mysterious slaying in Washington of Mary Baker, navy department clerk.

Search of an old well near Powers' garage revealed no further bodies yesterday, but police were not satisfied. Still doubting Powers' statement that the five he strangled and beat to death "are all there," they discussed the plans for using a steam shovel to tear up the acreage about the place, and prepared to search the bed of a nearby creek.

Conferences between criminal court Judge John E. Southern and Will E. Morris, Harrison county prosecutor, continued, the, special court term in the balance. Demands for prompt disposition of the Powers case poured in upon the prosecutor Saturday night after the discovery of Mrs. Lempeke's body. There was no indication, however, of what action might be taken.

City Detective Carl Southern today announced receipt of word from Washington police that Powers' description tallied with that of a suspect in the killing of Miss Baker two years ago. Inquiries in that case followed a suggestion from a Washington resident that Powers, reluctant about telling when he was in Washington, D. C., might be the slayer.

THE DAY In Sports

The National Boxing Association's heavyweight rankings for September reveal several important changes from the last previous list. Jack Sharkey of Boston, despite his draw with Mickey Walker, is accorded the position of leading contender, replacing W. L. Stripling, Jr., who was dropped to sixth place as a result of his technical knockout at the hands of Max Schmeling at Cleveland, July 3.

Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, is moved up from fifth place to second place. Ernie Schaaf, Boston, is ranked No. 3 whereas he was No. 7 a few months ago.

Mickey Walker on the strength of his draw with Sharkey is given fourth place. He was not ranked at all in the previous list.

There are two newcomers on the list—Charlie Retzlaff, hard-hitting Duluth, Minn., farmer, and Steve Hamas, former Penn State athlete. Retzlaff is given eighth place and Hamas tenth.

EIGHT CONTESTS ON SCHEDULE OF QUAKER SQUAD

Canton McKinley Billed As First Opponent on Home Stadium

FIVE GAMES BOOKED HERE, THREE AWAY

Annual Thanksgiving day Battle with Alliance To End Campaign

Marking the opening of preparations for the 1931 football season, Coach Floyd W. Stone and some 38 Salem High gridiron prospects, today started preliminary workouts in the grid camp arranged for the squad of Quaker talent at Dunn Eden lake park.

With the opening battle scheduled with Canton McKinley at Reilly stadium Saturday, September 19, Stone is faced with the problem of shaping up a formidable eleven in less than a month's time. A fine collection of veteran talent was among the players assembled at the camp.

Scarcity of line material is feared as the squad's main bugaboo this season and it is on the development of tackles, guards and centers that Stone will concentrate work on at the camp. An unusual array of ball-carrying stars, including Ed Beck, Jack Carpenter, John French, is back again this year.

Only two new opponents, Niles and East Liverpool, will be faced by the Quaker gladiators during the season. New Philadelphia, Youngstown East and Akron West, for several years regular opponents of the Red and Black, will not be faced this year. Niles plays here Friday night, September 25 while the Quakers trek to the Ceramic City on Saturday, October 17.

Only eight games appear on the schedule, five at the home greensward of Reilly athletic stadium, and three away. The annual Thanksgiving day clash with Alliance is booked here for 9:30 a. m. November 26.

The complete schedule: Sept. 19—Canton McKinley here. Sept. 25—Niles here. (Friday night). Oct. 3—Open. Oct. 9—At Warren (Night). Oct. 17—At East Liverpool. Oct. 23—Open. Oct. 30—Wellsville here (Night). Nov. 6—Youngstown South here. (Night). Nov. 13—Lisbon here. (Night). Nov. 20—Permanently open. Nov. 26—Alliance here. (Morning).

Speed Kings to Vie for International Cup

The motorboat speed kings of the United States and Great Britain will vie for the famous international trophy, called the Harmsworth Cup, emblematic of world supremacy, when they pilot their fleet craft on the Detroit River on Labor Day. Kaye Don, holder of the world's speedboat record, will drive the British entry, "Miss England II" against "Miss America IX," piloted by Gar Wood, premier American speedboat ace. Wood has kept the coveted trophy in the U. S. for the last 10 years. "Miss England II" is the craft in which Sir Henry Seagrave lost his life while attempting to set a new record, and which Don later drove at the terrific speed of 110 miles per hour at Italy.

YOUNGSTERS TOP OLD-TIMERS IN U. S. AMATEUR

Jack Westland, Chicago, Scores 72 To Lead Entire Field

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Refused to a man by Beverly's verted purgatory of traps and tree-lined fairways, America's first ranking amateur, sailed forth today over their second and final 18 hole qualifying journey in the national amateur championship drive with the youngsters in front and at least a dozen of the advertised favorites hanging on the ragged edge.

Westland Leads Field

Leading the field on the tide of the only 72 of the opening day skirmish, was Jack Westland, Chicago, district amateur champion, while one shot behind him came 20 year old Gus Moreland of Dallas, Texas, who landed two shots away from par's mark with a 73. Five of the ten players "seeded" by the United States Golf association prior to the firing were in fairly close but the others faced a hard struggle to place, notably Harrison R. "Jimmy" Johnston of St. Paul, 1929 champion, and T. Philip Perkins, the Briton now campaigning out of work.

Johnston and Perkins were confined with the necessity of shooting almost par golf to land among the 32 low scorers who will battle it out over the match play route starting tomorrow. They came in with 82's yesterday to find themselves on the ragged edge.

Tolley Down

Cyril Tolley, England's lone threat was just about out of the picture with a wobbly 85, while such golf notables as Max Marston, former champion, George Voigt, New York; Charles "Chick" Evans, two time holder of the crown; Roland Mackenzie, Hollywood, and F. H. Brown, Honolulu's sole entry, had something to worry about with their 78 or 79's as it looked like it would take 158 or better to make the match play field.

Francis Outimet of Boston, who won the title way back in 1914; Johnny Goodman of Omaha; Charley Seaver of Los Angeles and Arthur "Ducky" Yates of Rochester, N. Y., were among the few of the favorites to even approach the leaders. They did it with 74s and were in comfortable positions.

Frank Dolp of Portland, Ore.; George Dunlap, Jr., Princeton Ace; Eugene Homans, Englewood, N. J., runnerup to Bobby Jones at Merion last year; Maurice McCarthy of New York, and Ross Somerville, Canadian champion, appeared in, too, but none of them had margins large enough to permit any momentary blowups. Dolp had a 75, Dunlap, Homans and McCarthy had 76s while Somerville had a 77.

BUDDING BOBBY JONES

SAN FRANCISCO—A 9-year-old named Bobby Jones won his first major golf title 20 years ago. It was the Atlanta, Ga., club championship. The world didn't turn any handsprings, because it didn't know that this same boy would be the game of golf itself in 1931. In San Francisco today lives 15-year-old Dalton Henderson. He has just won his first major golf title, the California State Junior championship, and if young Henderson keeps up his good work the golf world is due to turn handsprings. The lad is a nephew of Pete Hay, pro at the Monterey Country club, near here.

Salem Hardware Defeats Cox Studio; In First Place

A see-saw battle for first place in the Salem Softball league today had again placed the Salem Hardware team at the head of the list following the team's 5-1 victory over the Harold Cox Studios at Centennial park Monday.

The Hardware, victorious in ten out of 14 games, today held a half-game edge over the Mullins Foremen's club but the race is expected to be even-all again after tonight when the body-makers oppose the Community Service Station.

The Hardware took advantage of several walks and errors to score three runs in the first and two more in the fourth.

The United Cigars squeezed through a narrow 2-1 victory over the American Laundry when Davis clouted a two base wallop to score.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 1.—Creation of a football council that includes head coaches of other major sports at the University of Wisconsin has been announced by Glenn Thistlethwaite, head football coach.

This committee will not be called upon to assume any responsibility in the technical coaching of the football squad but advice of its members will be sought by Thistlethwaite in matters of general football policy common to all major sports.

George E. Little, director of athletics, will head the committee, which includes Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, basketball coach; Tom E. Jones, track coach; and Guy S. Lowman, baseball coach. Jones and Lowman have served as varsity football scouts for years while Meanwell saw long service as team physician.

FERRELL HITS TWO HOMERS AS INDIANS TROUNCE CHICAGO

(By Associated Press)

Almost any day now, Wesley Ferrell is likely to discover he has batted himself right out of his present job with the Cleveland Indians. With every passing week it becomes more apparent he never was cut out to be a pitcher.

It's quite true the young right-hander rang up 25 victories last year and already has scored 18 this season, but that doesn't alter the fact that he has been more or less wasting his time. His real career seems to lie on the other end of the firing line.

Clouts 358 Average

Through yesterday games, Ferrell was hitting a rare 358, an average topped only by two American league players who have participated in as many games as he has this season. They are Al Simmons and Babe Ruth. Appearing in 47 games, many times as a pinch hitter he has pounded eight home runs, six doubles and a triple and batted in 27 runs.

Valuable as is his pitching arm to the Cleveland cause, it would not be surprising to see the Indians shift him to a regular outfield post in order to get the daily benefits of his big bat. There are the rhyming examples of Babe Ruth and Lefty O'Doul, who deserted the mound for more lucrative gardens. Ferrell would not require more than a passing glance at their salary checks to convince him the chance was for the better.

Hits Two Homers

All of which is preamble to the fact that Wes had one of his most spacious days yesterday. In addition to holding Chicago to six hits and registering his eighteenth victory 15 to 5, he plastered opposing pitchers for two home runs and a single, drove in five runs and himself scored four.

Waite Hoyt, the former "school-boy wonder", pitched his second straight shutout as the Athletics defeated Willy Moore and the Boston Red Sox 3 to 0. He yielded seven hits.

Washington rallied to score four times in the sixth inning and two more in the seventh, knock Herb Pennock from the hill and defeat the Yankees, 6 to 5.

The Detroit Tigers, behind Earl Whitehill's six-hit hurling, downed the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 3, in their series opener.

John McGraw's New York Giants had that little extra punch necessary to capture a pair of close ones from the Boston Braves, 3 to 2 and 4 to 3. The first a duel between Freddie Fitzsimmons and Fred Frankhouse, went to the Giants when Frankhouse grew unsteady and walked two men in the ninth. The nightcap went 10 innings before Mel Ott drove Bill Terry across with the deciding run.

The Braves had scored twice off Clarence Mitchell in the ninth to tie the score.

Superstition Worked

HAZLETON, Pa.—A baseball superstition was justified here recently in a New York-Pennsylvania League game between Hazleton and Harrisburg when Bill Dietrich, Harrisburg hurler, passed between innings to have his picture taken. Prior to the photographing, Dietrich had held the Mountaineers to a single hit. When he returned to the box, after the snapshot request, he was clouted from pillar to post before Manager Eddie Onslow sent in a relief pitcher.

TODAY'S FEATURES

At The State
A tremendous combination of acting talent, directorial genius, writing wisdom and music-making magic have been woven into a thrilling and joyous motion picture entertainment, "The Smiling Lieutenant."

Bringing Maurice Chevalier back to the screen after his European tour in another rollicking romance which combines all the attractive features of his former screen successes, "The Smiling Lieutenant" comes today to the State theater for a three day run.

Two gorgeous leading ladies, the brunette Claudette Colbert, the blonde Miriam Hopkins, keep things lively for the smiling Frenchman. Charlie Ruggles, the joyous inebriate of a score of film hits, gives of his laugh-making talents to this new picture.

The story deals with a sprightly lieutenant of the guards, madly in love with a charming cabaret entertainer, for whom he is willing to sacrifice the joys of bachelorhood. Before he can accomplish his purpose, however, he is snatched up by a princess who mistakes his smile for a proposal, and forces him into unwilling matrimony. After marriage he forsakes his dowdy wife for happiness with the girl of his choice. But his wife, determined to win his regard, learns the secrets of charm from his sweetheart, and tears his heart between love with duty or without.

Robert Woolsey is seen in his first attempt at solo acting in "Everything's Rosie" feature today at the Grand theater. Bert Wheeler, his usual teammate is absent from the film.

A real story of a carnival faker, who adopts and raises as his own a baby girl, and becomes hopelessly, worshipfully in love with her.

In the portrayal of this character Woolsey reveals a depth of pathos on a par with the greatest of tragedians, while his humorous adventures in following side-shows around the country, conducting auction sales, telling fortunes, selling patent medicines and operating shell games afford him great opportunity for the patter and wisecracking that have made him famous.

The excellent cast includes Anita Louise, Johnny Darrow, Florence Robert and Alfred P. James.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

"What are the quick meat dishes?" demands Betty whose husband likes to have meat for dinner regularly. "I am a bit tired of big roasts that hang around in the ice-box half the week. Meat that makes one appearance and is done for would just about suit me."

There are the obvious steaks and chops, of course, and sometimes housekeepers who get in the habit of buying lamb chops forget that there are others. Veal chops and cutlets take only 30 minutes or less of cooking, depending on the method of preparation. They can be fried in deep fat more quickly, but then the heating of the fat takes some time. Pork chops too should be cooked slowly and thoroughly, and although they can be fried quickly in deep fat, they are more digestible if cooked slowly and thoroughly.

Bacon and Liver

Liver is another highly nutritious, quickly cooked meat. Bacon and liver, properly prepared, are usually popular. And certainly there is no meat that lends itself more to quick, last minute cooking than liver, for that is the only correct way to prepare it.

The overcooking of liver is a widespread practice and spoils the delicate texture of this food. While frying the bacon, soak the liver in cold water. (Incidentally, it should not be sliced too thin—at least half an inch thickness is an advantage.) Wipe dry with a towel, then put the liver in the hot, well-greased frying pan. Keep heat fairly high, turn frequently, and serve as soon as lightly browned on both sides. Three or four minutes is usually sufficient to fry liver, but test before serving by cutting off a bit of the edge, to make sure it is cooked through. Remove immediately when tender to avoid overcooking.

Of course, all the chopped meats are the last word in easy cooking and variety can be obtained by mixing various meats. Round steak or rump, ground have an excellent flavor. Better still is a combination of ground rump, veal and pork in equal quantities.

Meat Cakes

1/2 pound round steak
1/2 pound veal
1/2 pound pork
1 cup bread crumbs
1/2 cup hot milk
1 tablespoon onion juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of pepper.
Mix hot milk and breadcrumbs, add other ingredients, then form into little flat cakes and fry until brown on both sides.

Smoked Meats

Then there are all the sausages.

Flashes
of Life

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Germany.—Forty per cent of all German marriages are childless these days. In Berlin the figure is 54 per cent. In pre-war times families of half a dozen or more were common.

CHICAGO—Another good long count from Dave Barry. The referee of the second Dempsey-Tunbatile swung vigorously and effectively on two thugs and rescued a bank messenger who had a pay-roll.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—Motorists who go too fast are to be summoned to attend a citizens' safety meeting at which traffic dangers will be described with movies. If the speedsters fail to attend they will be prosecuted.

CRESTOBAL, Canal Zone—An ancient launch abandoned by the French in their unsuccessful effort to build a Panama Canal still works for Uncle Sam. It piles the canal for the dredging division. Most of the dredges and other equipment for which the United States paid some $43,000,000 are rotting and rusting in tropical vegetation.

Fresh, good quality sausages are highly nourishing and usually popular with men. They make a lusty dish and are quickly prepared. Frankfurters may be boiled, broiled or baked with vegetables. Large potatoes, scooped lengthwise with an apple corer, and with a frankfurter inserted in the aperture can be prepared with little trouble and make a tasty dish.

Other varieties of sausages can be combined with eggs to make tasty omelets. Heat the sliced sausage in a frying-pan and turn so that it is heated throughout but not browned. Then pour over all an omelet mixture—allowing one tablespoon of milk for each egg. Heat slowly until firm and serve at once.

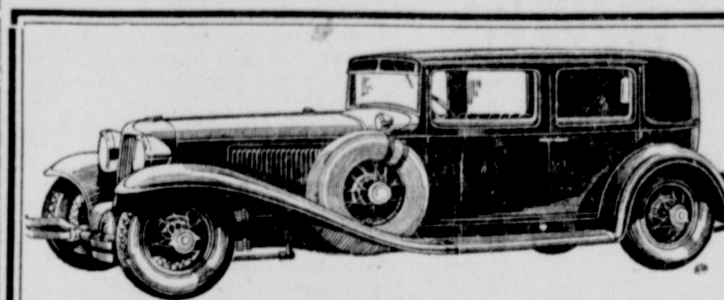

Any of the smoked meats—like ham, tongue, corned beef—may be cut in small dice and prepared in this fashion. This may be either a homely supper dish, or a Sunday morning breakfast if it's the kind of breakfast that's served around noontime.
